During the present and the previous year, as you are aware, and as the above statistics indicate, the emigration has been falling off. But the disturbances in Europe the past year, and other causes, it is supposed, will soon bring it back to previous years.

My next will probably be from the Green Mountain State. A disastrous fire broke out on Sunday night s on Wells street, near the corner of Har reet, in the South Division, caused, doub by incendiarism. The flames spread with great rapidity, involving almost immediately the large NEW YORK CENTRAL RATLEGAD.—A tabular statement of the running expenses and cost of repairs of locomotive engines on the Eastern Division of the New York Central Railroad, for the month of October, shows that during the month there was an average of 42 trains per day passed Little Falls, and 27,362 cars were hauled between Utica and Albany. The number of engines on the Division was 45, and the number of engines on the Division was 45, and the frame building of the same owners Mesers. Hall & Winch, a Sash, Door and Blind mannfactory. The Jumpertz Case.

The mystery of this case deepens by new developments. The Court was occupied yesterday until four o'clock in the cross examination of Mrs. Elizabeth Riley by the defence. Nothing was developed to change the evidence as we gave it on Saturday. The girl's replies were very ready and sometimes decidedly emphatic.

After the conclusion of the cross examination, Hillary S. Buhlenberger and A. W. Getz, of Milwaukee, who were Jumpertz employers while he remained in Milwaukee, were called to show the hours in which Jumpertz was compelled to be in the shop while in their employ, and also show what clothing he wore, in order to break moraing. No business was done further than the empannelling of the petit jury. The following is the grandjury for the term:

After the conclusion of the cross examination, Hillary S. Buhlenberger and A. W. Getz, of Milwaukce, who were Jumpertzemployers while he remained in Milwaukce, were called to show the hours in which Jumpertz was compelled to be in the shop while in their employ, and also show what clothing he wore, in order to break down the testimony of Mrs. Riley's, she having described his dress, when he, she claims, that Jumpertz was introduced, and visited her while she and he lived in Milwaukce. Each of the winnesses testified to his punctual habits in business, and that he very rarely, if ever, left the shop except at certain stated periods, when he was allowed to do so by the rules of the shop. The testimony of these two witnesses was somewhat conflicting, and did not seem to establish any fact in a very decided manner. At the conclusion of the above testimeny

A New and Remarkable Invention We have already briefly adverted to the fact that one of our Chicago photographic artists has developed a new and most valuable feature in the photographic art. We are now able to refer to the matter more in detail. Some years whether portrait or landscape, and permaner fixing the same in one and the same proc So desirable an attainment was heralded in

Obviously we can give no description of the process, we can only speak of the pictures we have seen, where all the colors, shades and ints, of hair, eyes, complexion, lips, and apparel have been brought out clearly and by the simple action of chemicals. The method is, Mr. H. says, a simple one, easily learned by any moderately skillful operator, while these pic-tures may be furnished for less than half the responding in style but inferior in beauty. The time too is shortened, and a large sized and other colored photographs is best shown under the magnifier. The oil and water colors decrease in beauty as the strokes of the pencil and the brush come out under the glass, while by Mr. Healer's process the magnified picture is ure, and Mr. Hesler deserves the fullest returns do not hope for a restoration of thorough-endly and national relations between the and South, until this slavery issue, so ar as it is involved in the policy of the Repu and until the government af the country has been brought back to the point at which the Fathers of the Republic left it. We would be glad to have peace; but as long as the foot of lavery is pressed upon the neck of the North is long as the legislation, domestic and foreign is directed solely to the degradation of the free nd the aggrandisement of the slave States, eace is impossible. The North is aroused check are breaking down day after day by the blows that the South is inflicting. The Anti-Slavery sentiment is taking deeper and firmer root in the popular heart. The fossils of an d the awakened conscience of the Republic represented in the younger and more carn-temen, is taking the lead. Yet the demands popular party are singularly mode hall cease: that the old and safe rule of Free n the Territories, which has guided the untry so long and through so many perils, all be restored; and that the comity of the es which the South has disregarded, sha s not wise in resisting these things which the race her steps and to hold out the sign of re ooth sections go to Washington deeply im-pressed by recent events. The prospect now a that without the withdrawal of Southern en from their offensive position, the exitement which pervades the country will be till more intensified. Now let the politicians ate their allegiance to the Constitu-hich they are appealing. They can to but be aware that they are in the wrong. They have, by their own confession, departed by which the whole country had agreed to abide. If they want peace and security their possessions, let them held our else clive branch. Let them come back to the ground occupied by Washington, Jefferson, Mad son and all the founders of our glorious institutions, will die away in a month? Their destiny is in Superficial Education.

Pope says that "a little learning is a usager-ous thing." In our country, we have abundant proofs of the truth of this remark. The great fault of the American character is superficiality. We study nothing thoroughly—except the art of money-getting—but sacrifice everything to quickness and smartness. All our systems of adventual simulations of the

Among the humbugs that tend to perpetuate this state of things, we are disposed to recken the "popular" systems of knowledge—the science-made-easy methods of climbing the steeps of mental elevation. The tenchers of the million seem to forget that it is only the criss and discipline of the mind which can give it power and depth, or enable it to use its knowledge with wisdom. To simplify every study—to lead the mind along a railway or planked road to knowledge, so that no efforts on its own part, no long distressing discipline of thought and research, no grappling with difficulties, is required—is the climax of absurdity. As well might you make the exercises of the gymnasium—the climbing of ladders, the jerking of dumbbells, the swinging on parallel bars—light and unfatigoing. In each case, it is in the very hardness of the thing done that its value consists. All the facts in the world will not make one wise; he may have his head crammed with them, and yet remain a feeble, conceited, and shallow man. A man never fully understands a truth till he has discovered it, anew, for himbelf; before that, it may lodge in his mind, but has no home there. Doubtless the dullest man in the community, by simply opening his eyes, may learn a thousand things unknown to Bacon. But a few easy acquisitions from a book will not lessen the distance between a modern duose and as ancient sage. A dwarf, perched on a giant's shoulders, may see further than the giant; but he is a dwarf still. The acute and pations thinker of the dark agres, who never guessed that the atmosphere in which he lived had weight, was, novertheless, as another has said, a philosopher of profound understanding; while he whose lecturer has taught him ac cathedra that it preases fifteen pounds to the square inch, may, not-withstanding the superiority of his information, remain a feeble, weak-minded man. In abort, facts are not knowledge, any more than books have understanding.

Young man, would you avoid the rook on which so many intellectual frame; your means facul

A LETTER FROM YOUNG COPPIC—A PETITION FOR HIS PARDON.

(From the Davenport Gasette, 36.)

We conversed yesterday with a citizen who has been spending some days at Springdale. Cedar County, Lows, with the family of young Coppie, who live at that place. Mr. Coppie is now at Charlestown, Va., under sentence of death for his participation in Brown's Harper's Ferry affair, and will be hung on the 23d inat. He is only twenty-three years of age, and im Codar County bore a high reputation as an honeat, hard-working, moral young man. He was remover before engaged in any abolition movement. We understand that a petition, signed by over two hundred of his old friends and neighbors, certifying as to his excellent character, and we praying for his pardon, has been forwarded to Gov. Wise, by a special measenger, whose expenses are paid by the petitioners. But there is no hope. Gov. Wise, we believe, cannot if he would, pardon Coppie. He has the legal power to pardon Captain Cook, but no other. The following is a copy of a letter received within a few days from young Coppie, by his afflicted parents, and for the first time published. In a nots of after date, he speaks of the disposition of his property earnestly ask, for a visit from one particular friend, and that his expenses shall be paid from the sale of his (Coppie's) property. He says these will probably be his last words to his parents and friends this brother, who was engaged in the Harper's Ferry affair, is asfe in Canada. INCIDENTS OF THE EXECUTION.

AN INFAMOUS CIRCULAR. AN INFAMOUS CIRCULAR.

Some villainous soundrel has put in circulation au appeal addressed. "to the Irish friends of the South in Northern citues," declaring that "the South looks to its Irish friends in the large free cities to effect a diversion of its favor," by "burning a large factory, or plethoric store, or immense gransry in New York or Boston" whenever "a hayatack or a cotton gm, is turned at the South by free soil emissaries." The circular represents that "Southern gentlemen will be constantly among such Irish men, apply supplied with means to remove those whose pairiotism has subjected them to suspicion" and that "for every dollar's worth of injury done to our enemies in the Northern factories, the South will amply compensate, and besides farnish you a safe refuge and a homestead." It says also that a league of Irishmen its formed for this infamous purpose, called "The United Constitutional Irish Association," and is signed "The Committee."

We are sure that such an appeal will not be listened to, and that it is infamously slanderous of our Southern fallow its infamously slanderous of our Southern fallow in the standerous of the committee of our Southern fallow infamously slanderous of our Southern fallow in the sure of the sure of our Southern fallow of the committee." is signed "The Committee."
We are sure that such an appeal will not be listened to, and that it is infamously slanderous of our Southern fellow citizens. The man who could concoct and circulate it, for whatever purpose, has a heart blacker than ebony, whether he be an American addressing Irishmen, or an Irishman addressing his countrymen. We only wish he could be made to feel the exercation that his villainy will excite both South and North,

Under this heading we find the following re-marks in the Charleston Mercury, prefatory to a notice subjoined, in relation to Governor Hist's tendering aid to Virginia: a notice subjoined, in relation to Governor Gist's tendering aid to Virginia:

"We are satisfied that every intelligent man in the South has been completely disgnated at the broad and pathetic farce that has been played off before the public about the hanging of that beary villain, "Old Brown." From the 500 invaders in possession of Harper's Ferry and the 1,000 negroes carried off to the mountains of Pennaylvania—from the further invasions and threats of invasion—the arsons and fears of arson—the marches and countermarches of the ponies and cessation of ponies—Governor Wisa, the energetit, and his troops—down to the finatelmax of ministry aid offered by Governor Gist, South Carolina, to the Governor of Virginia for the purpose of making certain the aforesaid hanging of Old Brown & Co.—it is a tissue of disgrace, exaggeration and invention sufficient to str the gall of any Southerner, who has regard for the dignity and responsibility of the Southern people. To us it really looks as if those in possession of the telegraph were in league to ridicule the South and make us-siaughing stock to ourselves and heave the world. We sincerely transfer and have the world. We sincerely transfer and have the world. We sincerely transfer and take no nearly transfer and the sufficient of the populary of the propagate of the prop

A correspondent of the New York Herald gives the following as an occurrence on the cars between Richmond and Charlestown, Va.: Ant at one time 1 was point of the discount of enity arising. The main point of the discussion was in reference to the conservation of the North. The military gentlemen argued that there was no conservation North of Mason and Dixon's line, while the Illinois gentlemen maintained the opposite. As soon as the discussion became audible to the other passengers in the care, there was a sudden and spontaneous rush towards the disputants. The military gentlemen engaged in the debate were generally known on board, and the fact of there being any contradiction to their positions led me to apprehend that the disputants on the other side would be esteemed prima facis unsound on the slavery question, and, therefore, liable to be maltreated. The auditors, however, cooly listened to ascertain the tonor of the discussion, and after a few mements attention discovered that the strangers from Illinois were sound on the "goose question." They failed, however, to satisfy their hearers that there was a shred of conservation at the North. In reply to a challenge to particularize one part at the North that maintained the Southern cause, they vanutingly paraded the Herald's services, and then foll back upon the Chicago Times, as another specimen of Northern conservative journalism. One of the party incantitionally remarked that Brown would have taken old Virginia with ten thousand auch men as himself. Fortunately for him, perhaps, his friend, who was evidently more prudent, fatly contradicted the assertion, and denied that he could accomplish such a feat with even one hundred thousand men. This had the effect of allaying the mortification and chagrin produced by this injudicious remark, and of, doubless, awing him who made use of it from chastisement. No amount of persuasion could induce the people of Virginia to believe that there exists any conservation or sympathy with the Southern cause at the North. There seems to be a fixed opinion to the contrary among the great mass of the people.

FATHER CHINIQUY.

Letter from Rev. Mr. Beaubles

the affairs of that Colony, is about to be Jubished. In the meantine I wish to make a few statements.

For a tow months past I have spent much of my time at Sie. Anne, at Father Chiniquy's house and among his people. I was sent frem the East to ascertain the truth of all that was said about that place, and I determined not to report without first seeing with my own eyes and hearing with my own ears what there was to be seen and heard. This was when they had received little or no help. It was the right time to visit them, so as to lind out how much there was in their cries of distress. I heard Mr. Chiniquy relate many heart-rending incidents in regard to the sufferings of his people, but this activates many heart-rending incidents in regard to the sufferings of his people, but this activated me not. I heard the people relate the asme things; but I wanted even more than this. I visited their fields and their homes, and found sterility in most of the ones and destitution at most of the others. The forthcoming report will show the truth of this statement. I will only add that, all the clothing forwarded to the Committee has been judiciously destributed by them. The Committee are also ready to give a satisfactory report of the use made of all monies put into their hands. The Eastern Churches have already been apprised of the fact that enough has been sent for the present. There is still need of funds, as will soon be seen.

I now pass to the spiritual matters. All who know Mr. Chiniquy have not the least doubt in regard to his being a thorough convert to Protestantism and a true Christian. He preaches Christ and Him only, and his people rely on none other but Christ. The statement that has been under of families in Sie. Anne who have abandoned Rome is 200. Among these about 800 persons are communicants. Their congregations, on the Sabbath, vary from 600 to 800 and ven 1,000. We do not pretend to say that all these conversions are genuine; this would be more than could be asid of any religious more. these conversions are genuine; this would be more than could be said of any religious morement, even among Americans. But, considering the darkness they have emerged from, their limited advantages, and the longth of time they have known the Truth, we venture to say that this movement will compare favorably with any religious movement among any class in this country.

P. S. The Committee make a distinction between the affairs of the Colony and Father Chiniquy's private affairs. They do not hold themselves responsible for any of Mr. Chiniquy's doings as a man. They only report as a committee.

Letter from Mr. Johnston. Chicago, December, 5, 1820.

Meers. Editors:—I hope you will not fire any ore guns at Father Chiniquy until you are ure of your mark. I do not say this to apoloize for Father Chiniquy, if he is in any way general character mats are their report.

I am not a member of that Committee; but I feel sure that the public will have all the facts in the case without any particulty whatever for Mr. Chimiquy, as soon as the Committee get their report prepared.

I also know the fact that several letters have been written East by members of the Committee and others, to have no more collections of goods or money made until this is done, and also that no more of either goods or money is needed on the accre of charity. I hope in the mean fine that a Committee of three good responsible men will be appointed by those who have heretofore aided Mr. C. here we confer with the Kankakee Committee of the good with the man fine publishing a clean and clear statement of all the facts, both as regards Mr. C. and his people. This as it appears to me is the only way of getting at an impart al statement and one that will be satisfactory.

Yourstruly,
J. Johnston.

Gen. Scott was to the Governor thus:

"Without prejec to the claim of either nation to the sovernity of the entire Island of San Juan, now lispute, it is proposed that each shall occup separate portion of the same by a detachment islandry, riflemen, or marines, not except one hundred men, with their appropriatrans, only for the equal protection of their pective countrymen on said island in their pons and property, and to repel any descent the part of heatile Indians."

Gen. Scott ad in his note that any addition or modifican augustated by Gov. Douglas oue household.

A few minutes after one the procession entered the church by the south siste. The body was preceded by the pall-bearers—James Hamiton, J. Watson Webb, Geo. D. Morgan, N. B. Holmes, Dr. Cogawell, Prof. Renwick, Henry Sheldon, end Gouverneeur Kemble, and followed by the immediate family and relatives of the deceased. It was met at the door by the Rector, the Rev. Dr. Creighton, and the Assistant Rector, the Rev. Mr. Spencer, the latter of whom commenced the solemn and beautiful office of the Episcopal Church for the Burial of the Dead, by the reading of the appointed sentences. The coffin was deposited in front of the stand in their goes and property, and to repel any descent the part of heatile Indians."

Gen. Scott add in his note that any addition or modifican auggested by Gov. Douglas would meet with spectful consideration.

Lieutenant Ceel Lay returned with the following reply:

"Manonaxmo-Hig Excellency Gov. Douglas eithorizes no say, having yet had no time to consider the position offered by Lieutenant-General Sc, nor to consult with his official advisors he he is at a glance satisfied that no obstaclarists to a completely amicable and satisfactory justment continuing throughout the perioof diplomatic discussion respecting the titlof the Island of San Juan, either upon the paugeested by Gen. Scott, browne other than ye mutually agreed to after advisement.

A copy of this morandum was retained by Gov. Douglas, aff being read and approved by him, and signly Lieutenant-Colonel Lay.

Rev. Ed. Mead, Rev. Dr. Morgan, Rev. Dr. Taylor, Rev. Dr. Leonard, Rev. Mr. Moore, Rav.
Mr. Dennison, and the Ber. Mr. Farrington.
Upon the conclusion of the services in the church, the lid of the coffin was removed, and for over an hour the vast congregation flid alowly past, and gazed for the last time on that face as well loved, and so soon to be hidden fer-ever from their sight. Upon the coffin lay some beautiful wreaths of flowers, entwined by the gentle hands of loving friends, and fitting emblems of that purity and rectitude of life and purpose which shone so pre-eminently in the life of him who alopt so calmly beneath them.

About three o'clock the procession moved from the church, in the following order: The clergy, the pall-bearers, the hearse, the family sand relatives of the deceased, the frustees of the Asior Library, the Committee of the Common Council from this city, the various schools of the village, citizens and strangers on foot and in carriages. The line was nearly a mile in length, and as it wound slowly along the road through many a locality rendered dear from the halo which Irving has thrown around it, the bells of the various churches of the village tolled forth the requirem to the passing dead.

Reaching the Cemetery, the remaining portions of the service were read by Dr. Oreighton, and upon its conclusion the body was lowered to its inal resting place by the aide of her who gave it birth. At the end of a life whose every step was in the narrow path, with a record as pure and spotless as when committed to his keeping, Irving sleeps by the side of his mother. There in that old churchyard, peopled with the dead of two centuries, the setting sun will shed its light and warmth upon the sool which covers the remains of the grestest of American authors. Apart from the din and turmoil of the restless city, amid the seenes, his pen has consecrated and where was spent the calm and peaceful cadence of his life, all that was mortal of the 'kind old man' was committed to its kindred dust. We are informed by several gentlemen from that vicinity, that they are at a loss to know the cause of this ahabby treatment, and the only reason under the sun that they can devise for this act is the fact of there being no Buchanan men within the range of that delivery into whose hands the papers belonging to that trust could be placed, hence, the whole community must be punished, just to tickle the spleen of some minion of the Administration. This trick is laid at the door of a certain very meddlesome Ex-official, living not a hundred miles from Waukegan, as one of this class of individuals was known lately to make enquiries of a certain man living at Gage's this class of individuals was known lately to make enquiries of a certain man living at Gage's Lake, whether they had some good Buchanan man there to whom the Post Office could be given. The jewel-box of an Egyptian Queen, which was found in one of the King's tombs in Egypt, has been taken to Pars and has excited considerable attention. The workmanship is spoken of as most elaborste, and exquisite in design

gold crown is particularly well made, as also a thick gold chain six feet in length. A beautifully chiselied gold plate contains a male portrait evidently that of the King.

Blair turned, and as our eyes met he slowly whispered:

"A pack of hungry wolves! God have mercy upon us!"

A sickening sensation went like a flash to the heart, and then came burning thoughts of home, and again the chills, as I thought of the shelterless prairie and blinding snow.

"Again! the black devils are on our track!" As Blair spoke he laid his hand upon my arm, and with an expression of sadness which I never shall forget, looked me steadily in the eye. There was a tremor of the lip which I had never seen before. It was not fear—I knew that—but some terrible remembrance or presentment which came over him, with irresistible power.

"The hour has come! I knew it would ing sound, the how! of a wolf. "God have mercy upon us!" This exclusion was not more sudden than startlingly tered, and sent the chills creeping from the aping heart in pricking sensations over the in.

It was the first time I had ever noticed such

It was the first time I had ever noticed such a tremor in the old squatter's tones, or a manner which indicated that he ever felt fear. It was something unusual, and with my own young pulse quickened, I watched the old man by the dim light of the fire.

I had known Luke Binir—"Old Luke," as he was called—for ten years, and yet know nothing of his history. There was a mystery about him which none ever penetrated, and an eccentricity of manner which gave his movements a peculiar interest to his rough but true hearted comrades. He spent his time in the woods, and sever brought in anything but wolves' scalps. There was a florce burning look cool in danger as in his camp. Nor was there anything rough in his manners; on the contrary, there was an easy bearing—almost elegance—which bespoke a day of education and refinement. And when he did speak his language was well chosen.

Blair had other qualifications which won the respect of the hardy spirits around him. He was six feet in height, broad-shoulderd, full-chosted, and form erect, and his limbs were models of symmetry and strength; hair and beard had grown unshorn since we had known him, and were thickly sprinkled with gray. But the forehead, though darkly brouzed and desply seamed, was almost massive, and the head of faultless mould. The grow was dark, instrous, and, in excitement, of peculiar and fascinating power. Around his neck was some sacred token, which no eye had seen, and which he guarded with a jealous care.

There was something about the old man—als commanding presence, his bravery, and his lonely habits and sad manner—which won my young heart, and I watched every opportunity of manifesting my regard. I had engaged him to guide me to the Mississippi, by way of —— Prairie.

feeling of happiness crept over me; the soun of the strife below died out, and sweet dream stole over me like the summer's breath.

The reports of our rifles had reached the cabin, which, as I afterwards learned, was no twenty rods from where we camped. The in mates, numbering some fourteen by the addi-tion of emigrants who had stopped in the storm, came out with dogs and guns, and reached the spot but a moment too late. Blain had lodged his are so deeply in the head of a wolf that the corners remained fast, and the others tore him down. They were literally shot down with their fangs holdings to the torr lesh and his ware blood iditing over their Prairie.

For several days we threaded the dense forests which intervened, and under great difficulties. The snow had fallen to an unusual depth, the cold was intense, and rendered more intolerable by the floree wind from the prairie waste. We were warmly dressed, but there were times when the weary frame began to feel the dreamy influence of the sleep which steals so fatally exert the senses.

On the night in question we had tursed aside to seek the shelter of a grove of small timber, and to find fuel for our fire. We had faced the blinding storm all day, and could hardly keep sufficiently awake to kindle the fire and secure wood for the night. We had just accomplished this when the hunter made the exclamation at the head of our story. I was awake at once, and the blood tinged through my chilled veins, for I knew that Luke Ellair would not so speak without cause.

"Hark?" Biair would not so speak without cause.

The market for Live Hogs yesterday was active, and prices were on an average 5@10c better than on Saturday. The sales ranged from $4.25@4.35 gross, and the market closed firm.
To-day there were no Hogs received, but the feeling was becyant. A lot of 1500 Hogs were bought at a point about 100 miles west, for this market, at $4.50 gross. The receipts of Dressed Hogs were light, and the market a shade firmer—good Hogs selling readily at $5.50@5.75, and light at $5.50@5.75.

In provisions there was a firmer market. There was an active inquiry for Mess Pork at $14.75, but there were no round lots offering at report a sale of 1500 bris for January delivery at Milwaukee, at $14.50, which is an advance of 500 on previous purchases there. Out Meats were more active, and prices show an advance. A lot of 10,000 Green Hams were sold at 74c, 1000 pes Sides from salt at $7.56 packed, and 700 pcs at 74c loose. For delivery at Milwan-kee there were sold, 4,000 Shoulders from salt at 55c packed, and 2,000 short Middles at 75c packed. Lard is firm, with sales of 100 bris prime Leaf at 10c, and 200 pkgs for delivery at Milwaukee at 95c. There is a good inquiry for Tallow, and the market remains firm at 105c. Tallow, and the market remains firm at 10 c.
From Alton, in this State, we learn by private dispatches that the packers there to-day vere paying $5.25@5.75 nett.
The Flour market was more active, and hold-ars were firmer. About 1500 brls changed hands at $4.15@4.75 for common to choice Spring Extras, and $5.60 for good Ill. White Winter. Wheat was in better demand, and ad-No. 1 in store, and 35@36c for Ear on track. Oats in good demand and scarce, with limited transactions at 35c on track.
